1-2

Midleton to Mogeely

8 km

Midleton is a charming market town with an array of restaurants, cafes and bars. Starting at Midleton train station, the route soon leaves the town behind and continues through an agricultural landscape and biodiversity corridor rich with wildflowers in summer.

A riverside seating area at Roxborough offers an ideal spot to enjoy the bluebells in spring while nearby, a bridge showcases the innovative use of redundant wind turbine blades. Continue on to Mogeely where the trailhead at the former railway station is an ideal rest point. A local playground is located just off the Greenway in Mogeely village.

2-3

Mogeely to Killeagh

5 km

Leaving Mogeely behind, hedgerows of whitethorn, blackthorn, elder, oak and crab apple trees are in abundance. In this section, a striking water tower dominates the skyline and is a visible reminder of the area's history connected with plans for the development of an airship base during the First World War.

Killeagh provides an excellent mid-point on the route with a beautifully landscaped area set aside for seating and rest. If you choose to leave the Greenway, shops and cafes can be accessed in the nearby village of Killeagh. While there, take time to explore Glenbower Woods - an ancient woodland with easy walking trails through oak, ash and beech trees.

3-4

Killeagh to Youghal

10 km

The final leg involves the approach into Youghal passing through Ballyvergan Marsh, the largest reedbed in County Cork. The marsh is home to a range of species including the hen harrier and grasshopper warblers.

The route finishes at the Greenway car park close to the old railway station and the Front Strand promenade, providing a coastal conclusion to the Greenway route. The town centre is approximately 1 kilometre away from the Greenway. It is well worth a visit with the medieval town centre featuring visitor attractions such as Youghal Clock Gate Tower, St. Mary's Collegiate Church and 13th century town walls as well as cafes, restaurants and pubs.
